

Date: Thursday, May 20, 2010
Time: 1:00 – 4:30 pm
Location: Villa Amato Ballroom,
88 East 1st Ave., Vancouver, BC

Can Taxes and Subsidies Help Trim Our Waistlines
(and Health Care Budgets)?

Dr. Sean Cash

Panel presentation and discussion:

- Junk the tax? From rhetoric to recommendations
Dr. Sean Cash
- What is the appetite for economic policies to promote healthy eating?
Dr. Kim Raine
- Current food taxes in BC
Dr. Rick Barichello

About the speakers:

Sean Cash, PhD
Applied economist, Dept. of Consumer Science, University of Wisconsin
Adjunct professor, Dept. of Rural Economy, University of Alberta
Research focuses on how food and nutrition policies affect both producers and consumers.

Kim Raine, PhD, RD
Professor, Centre for Health Promotion Studies, School of Public Health, University of Alberta; Co-director, Healthy Alberta Communities
Recent research focuses on the socio-environmental determinants of the obesity epidemic and community-based strategies to promote healthy weights at multiple ecological levels.

Rick Barichello, PhD
Professor, Food and Resource Economics (FRE), Faculty of Land and Food Systems; Director, Centre for Southeast Asia Research, Institute for Asian Research, UBC
Research interests include analyzing the effects of selected agricultural policy instruments and international agricultural development.

Who will benefit:

- dietitians
- community nutritionists
- health educators
- public health professionals
- agricultural economists
- policymakers
- government representatives
- food industry representatives

Registration Form

Pre-registration is required. Registrations accepted by mail only.

Registration fee: $25 (Students $20)

Name

Organization

Mailing Address

Email

Please mail form with payment to:

Nutrition Forum
BC Dairy Foundation
3236 Beta Ave, Burnaby BC, V5G 4K4

Registration deadline: May 14, 2010

Tel 604.294.3775 or 1.800.242.6455
www.bcdairyfoundation.ca

Please make cheque payable to: BC Dairy Foundation.

Receipts will be available at the event.